The City of Wilmington and nCino ink long term sponsorship deal to help transform and support the new nCino Sports Park

WILMINGTON, N.C., May 05, 2021 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- nCino, Inc. (NASDAQ: NCNO), a pioneer in cloud banking and digital transformation solutions for the global financial services industry, today announced a long-term sponsorship with The City of Wilmington to help ensure youth sports will always have a home in Wilmington, North Carolina. In July 2019, the Wilmington City Council unanimously approved the donation of 65 acres from the Wilmington Hammerheads Youth Soccer Club organization. Following the donation being made, the Wilmington Hammerheads Youth Soccer Club approached nCino to sponsor the city-owned park, which would be shared by all members of the community. nCino's involvement will not only help fund the new sports complex, but will help create a culture to ensure access to and participation in youth sports for years to come.

"This partnership goes far beyond an enhanced sports complex for Wilmington's youth, it's about investing in structured activities that have a positive impact in the lives of young people," said the City of Wilmington's Mayor, Bill Saffo. "As one of Wilmington's most recognizable brands and a homegrown industry leader, we are excited to partner with nCino on this project and look forward to breaking ground in the coming months."

Located five-minutes from downtown Wilmington, the Cape Fear Soccer Park, soon to be renamed the nCino Sports Park, is currently a seven-field soccer complex owned and operated by the Wilmington Hammerheads Youth Soccer Club organization. The City of Wilmington will provide $10M of investment into the property, allowing the project to break ground by Fall 2021. The park will have 11 full-sized fields and will include outdoor lighting for evening games. On any given day, there can now be as many as 3,600 people attending a sporting event at nCino Sports Park, which will include soccer, lacrosse, football, ultimate frisbee, rugby, college intramural events and high school tournaments. With the addition of the extra fields, nCino Sports Park can expect upwards of 140,000 people to visit the facility on an annual basis.

"Through the City's parks bond program, the community voiced its desire for an upgraded sports park with the capacity to host sports tournaments and provide a healthy outlet for local youth," said Amy Beatty, Director of Community Services for the City of Wilmington. "With nCino's generous partnership and support, we are able to develop a first-class facility and provide tremendous athletic and recreational opportunities for Wilmington families."

"Youth sports has the power to bring families and people together and create a stronger community," said Jonathan Rowe, nCino's Chief Marketing Officer. "nCino was founded in Wilmington over nine years ago and since that day, we have been committed to the City of Wilmington and the Cape Fear region and are always looking for opportunities to create stronger ties and give back. We are proud of this partnership, the ability to help make sports more accessible to the youth in our community, and inspire the next generation of leaders."
